

The Midrash is There

The Haifa Project for the Study of Reception of Aggadic Midrash initiated a search for other relevant materials for the study of Midrah, hidden in unexpected fragments.

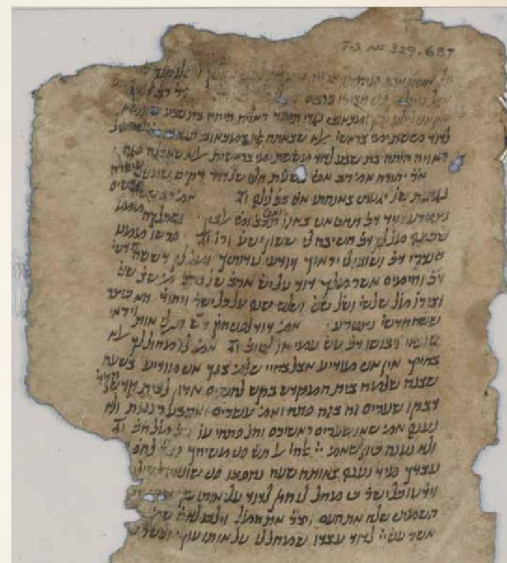

T-S NS 329.63 – A List of Verses. A unique version of a Midrashic list found in a Siddur.

T-S Misc. 36.149 – Book Lists . About 120 lists of books were found in the Genizah. These lists enable us to reconstruct the Medieval Jewish Library. Note the title Aggada – a Midrash for Deuteronomy.

T-S AS 68.83 - Targum fragment containing Midrashic materials in the margins. M. Klein noted that the Aramaic Targum is presented in a similar manner to the Biblical Text, a mark of its liturgical role and canonical status. The Midrash is added as an exegesis.

T-S NS 329.687 - A Collection of Aggadic materials from the Babylonian Talmud. The text might be the lost or unpublished work "Nuqteata de-Talmuda" (Tamludic Selections / Anecdotes) by Rav Yosef b. Yaakov Rosh Ha- Seder, 12th – 13th century.
